Shooting star

GERALDINE LANGLOIS' name might be a bit of a tongue twister, but her work surely leaves you speechless. Having captured many Bollywood actors, this Belgian photo artist says that it's India that wows her, and not our stars per se. She tells CS, "I completely love India, it is so rich in colours and tradition. I enjoy coming here and taking pictures. The people of the country are so beautiful and there is a streak of sincerity in them. Your country really fits the tag of Incredible India." Geraldine can't stop talking about the beauty that she sees around her.

"Whenever I'm here, I truly feel that life is beautiful. Everyone seems happy as they go about doing their daily business. Indians are so beautiful — their colour and their features make for great photographs," she signs off as she shows us some of the pictures that she has shot.
